Program note:

Le Mirouer is a nod to the French-speaking Beguine mystic, Marguerite Porete. Born in Hainaut, Belgium in 1250, her work would later inform the Christian movement called the "Heresy of the Free Spirit", with most known biographical information about her life coming from her Inquisition trial of 1310 in Place de Grève, Paris, Kingdom of France (the Place de l'Hôtel-de-Ville, today). While her history is clearly distorted, it is understood that her most famous publication, Le Mirouer des simples âmes anienties et qui seulement demeurent en vouloir et désir d'amour (trans. The Mirror of Simple Souls annihilated, and who only remain in want and desire for love), was first compiled in the 1290s, receiving a declaration of heretical content, to some extent, by the Bishop of Cambrai.

The Bishop condemned the text to a public burning.

In the early 1300s, she was possibly arrested in Châlons-en-Champagne, with the story suggesting she had passed her book along to a local bishop. She was promptly handed over to the Dominican Inquisitor, William of Paris on the grounds of heresy, leading to her martyrdom, burning at the stake in June of 1310. Notably, her final words were never recorded, though the legend suggests she simply smiled in the flames.

"It is not easy to establish exactly why Porete was condemned as a heretic. The Mirror of Simple Souls, written in a vivid literary style in Old French, is a dialogue among the allegorical figures of Love, Reason and the Soul. The main challenge it poses to Catholic orthodoxy is in its claim that there is a state of mystical union in which the will completely loses itself in God so that it becomes undifferentiated and one with the divine. Catholic doctrine has tended to resist such claims, but they are found in the writings of other mystics and devotional figures such as Meister Eckhart and Catherine of Siena who did not suffer Porete's fate (although Eckhart too was charged with heresy).

Porete's martyrdom can probably be attributed to a number of factors, not least of which is the threat that independent women pose to male-dominated religious hierarchies. She may also have been the victim of a complex interweaving of political and religious rivalries – in this case between the French monarchy and the papacy, at a time when Philip IV was trying to establish himself as a defender of the Catholic faith."

Le Mirouer relies on highly idiosyncratic approaches to string performance best explained via a recorded demonstration.

* If your group would like more demonstrations, more detail, feel free to reach out. If you consider your professional opinions about the excerpts in question ubiquitous to all future performances of Le Mirouer, I will add it permanently to the file and reference the name of your group at your request. This is an ongoing collaborative effort honoring the work and courage of Marguerite Porete, and therefore all suggestions are welcome *

The musical score is for a string ensemble, consisting of Violins I and II, Viola, and Violoncello. It is divided into two systems. The first system, measures 27-32, shows the instruments playing long, sustained notes with a fermata. The second system, measures 33-38, shows more active, melodic lines. Trills (tr) are marked above the first notes of measures 33, 35, 37, and 39. The French text 'dans le néant total, la limite de l'ouïe sonne...' is written below the first system.

This musical score page contains measures 97 and 98. The score is written for a string ensemble consisting of Violins I and II, Violas, and Cellos. The key signature has one flat (B-flat), and the time signature is 4/4. Measure 97 features a complex melodic line in the upper staves with various rhythmic values (eighths, sixteens, and dotted notes) and rests. The lower staves (Vla. and Vc.) provide a harmonic foundation with sustained notes and rests. Measure 98 continues the melodic development, with the upper staves featuring more complex rhythms and the lower staves maintaining the harmonic support. Dynamics include p (piano) and mp (mezzo-piano). The instruction "non vib" (non-vibrato) is present in the upper staves. The score is written on a system of seven staves, with the first five staves grouped by a brace on the left.

Violins I and II, Viola, and Cello parts are shown. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings (p, mp). The instruction "non vib" is present in the upper staves.

Detailed description: This page contains a musical score for measures 131 through 134. The staves are for Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Violoncello. Measure 131 features a 'ricochet' effect in the strings, with Violin I and II playing sixteenth-note patterns. Dynamics include mf, p subito, and f. Measure 132 continues the patterns, with a French instruction box between measures 132 and 133: 'gardez le volume silencieux jusqu'à ce que le crescendo soit presque terminé'. Measure 133 shows a crescendo leading to f and p subito. Measure 134 concludes the passage with f and p subito markings. The Viola and Violoncello parts provide harmonic support with sustained notes and rhythmic patterns.

This musical score page contains staves for Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Violoncello. The music features complex phrasing with many slurs and ties across measures. Dynamic markings include mf, p subito, and f. Technical annotations such as triplets (marked '3') and quintuplets (marked '5') are present. The notation includes various note values, rests, and articulation marks like accents and breath marks. A rehearsal mark '134' is located at the top left of the first system.

This musical score page contains measures 195 through 200. It features eight staves for string instruments: Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Violoncello, each with a double staff. The key signature has one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 12/8. The score is divided into three measures by vertical bar lines. In each measure, the first four staves (Vln. I, Vln. II, Vla., Vc.) follow a similar pattern: they begin with a forte (f) dynamic, marked with a wedge-shaped crescendo hairpin, and then transition to a piano (p) dynamic at the second bar line. In the third measure, all these parts shift to a fortissimo (f subito) dynamic. The Violin I and Violoncello parts have a fermata over the final note of the third measure. The Violin II and Viola parts continue with eighth-note patterns. The Violoncello part has a fermata over the final note of the third measure.
